

Federal Funding Opportunities for Eligible Healthcare Providers.

Helping healthcare institutions stay connected and competitive.

Healthcare Connect Fund

Administered by the Universal Service Administration Company (USAC), the Healthcare Connect Fund provides support for high-capacity broadband connectivity to eligible healthcare providers (HCPs) and encourages the formation of state and regional broadband HCP networks. Eligible rural HCPs — and those non-rural providers that are members of a consortium that has a majority of rural HCP sites — may receive up to a 65% discount on all eligible expenses for high-capacity broadband connectivity services and equipment, as well as to construct your own broadband infrastructure if it is the most cost-effective option.

Joining a consortium may allow healthcare providers with both rural and urban locations to secure funding if the consortium is over 51% rural in its total site count. If your location is not in a rural area, you still may be eligible for funding as part of a consortium.

Simplified Funding for Healthcare Providers

Segra partners with the Palmetto State Providers Network (PSPN) consortium, run by the non-profit organization Palmetto Care Connections.

Although consortium membership is not required to apply for the federal funds, several significant advantages are available as a PSPN member:

- PSPN has an evergreen USAC contract through 2033. As a member, competitive bids are not required to add sites or upgrade services.
- Both urban and rural healthcare providers, administrative offices and data centers are eligible to join the consortium and qualify for the funds.
- There's no need to hire a separate consultant or navigate the system yourself--our dedicated support team will file the paperwork for you.

Why Segra?

Few industries face more critical demands for secure, reliable communication than healthcare. Segra provides resources, services, and support to protect patient data, improve network performance, and ensure the flow of vital information — all while meeting strict regulatory standards.

Healthcare providers face complex, costly standards. Segra crafts customized communications solutions with the high-performance connectivity you need for patient care and compliance.
